

Whose Lie?

You and a friend find a $10 bill under the sofa cushion while watching a movie at another friend's house one night.

Whose Lie?

During a math test, your best friend asks to copy an answer to one of the questions.

Whose Lie?

The rule for getting into the Hall of Screams game room is that you have to be 11 to enter. You're 11, but your friend isn't.

Whose Lie?

You're shopping with a friend who puts something in her/his pocket without paying for it.

Whose Lie?

You and your friend are each eating a choco-brownie-ice-cream-bar when you realize that the cashier only charged you for one of them.

Whose Lie?

Your mom thinks you and your friend weeded the garden. But you didn't. She left some money on the kitchen counter for both of you as a way of saying thanks.

Math is easy for you so you offer to do your friend's homework. Is that dishonest, or is it just a way to be a good friend?

If you steal something, but then give it away, that's okay. What do you think?

Telling a lie to keep someone else out of trouble is a good way to show love. Explain your answer.

It's a really lucky day when you see someone leave an iPod® on a park bench and walk away. Yes or no? Defend your answer.

Honesty Checkup

- When I thought I was going to get in trouble, I tried to lie my way out of it.
- I've lied about something embarrassing about myself.
- I went along with a lie in order to keep my friend from getting into trouble.
- I took something that wasn't mine when no one was looking.
- I've made up stuff about myself to get people to like me more.
- I cheated in order to win a game or to get a better grade on a test.
- I broke a promise.
- I stretched the truth about something in order to make myself sound cool.
- I've been honest about myself as I filled out this Honesty Checkup.
